What do we do?

The Newport office is the corporate headquarters of ONS. The work here focuses on the collection and analysis of economic statistics, with a growing emphasis on social data. A range of corporate services, such as Human Resources, Information Management, Communications, Media Relations and Finance are also based here.

As in most organisations, ONS offers opportunities at a variety of levels – from administrative roles through to senior management. In any role you may find yourself dealing with customers, who include the public, academics, businesses, national press and other government departments.

What facilities are on site?

The site has open-plan offices and extensive catering facilities including a restaurant, shop and coffee lounge. There are several car parks, providing ample parking for all staff.

There is an on-site, private nursery for children aged three months to four years, and a subsidised school holiday playscheme for employees' children aged between five and 13. There are also health facilities including a gym, yoga classes and massage.
