Hi [REDACTED],

Hope you're well and had a good weekend.

Let me know if you'd be happy to send over an attendee list for the meeting – thank you very much. If they're not already invited, I'd strongly recommend inviting [REDACTED], who's the [REDACTED]. At Stonewall, we've conducted all of our Census work in close partnership with [REDACTED], and [REDACTED] is the expert on LGBT data policy (across all areas of data collection), so I think their voice will be an incredibly helpful and informative one at the roundtable, if they're not invited already – thank you very much. I'm happy to send over contact details in due course.

In addition, from a practical perspective, I'd strongly recommend that careful thought is applied to how the ONS can practically ensure that, depending on who is present at the roundtable, this is not a hostile environment for trans attendees. Let me know if you or your team would like to chat about this in more detail.

Best wishes

[REDACTED]

Hi [REDACTED]

Thank for coming back to me so promptly. We wish [REDACTED] well in her future endeavours.

More than happy for you to attend in her stead. I will get back to you around your colleague [REDACTED] attending as I was not involved with the cast list and will need to enquire.

I will send an update late next week with the attendees etc and joining details for the session.

Kind regards

Dear [REDACTED]

I hope this finds you well – I'm [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] here at Stonewall.

Please send our thanks to Iain for inviting us to this roundtable. As [REDACTED] is now due to go on furlough, I'd be very happy to attend in her place. I was also wondering if one of my colleagues, [REDACTED], would also be able to attend – thank you very much, and no worries if not.

Best wishes

Dear [REDACTED]

I would like to take the opportunity to invite you to a roundtable discussion on the guidance to accompany the 2021 Census sex question. As you will be aware, there are varied views across stakeholders on guidance to accompany the sex question. The aim of the roundtable is for the Office for National Statistics to hear the differing views of attendees and to hold discussions around next steps.

We have scheduled an online discussion to take place on Wednesday 24 June 2020 10.00am – 11.30am . Please can you indicate your wish to attend by responding to this invitation no later than COP 12 June 2020

Instructions on how to join the event will be issued to confirmed attendees closer to the discussion date.

Kind regards

Iain
