SUMMARY

Consumer Prices Index (CPI)

The CPI is a measure of consumer price inflation produced to international standards and in line with European regulations. First published in 1997 as the Harmonised Index of Consumer Prices (HICP), the CPI is the inflation measure used in the Government's target for inflation.

The CPI is also used for purposes such as uprating pensions, wages and benefits and can aid in the understanding of inflation on family budgets. For more information see Users and uses of consumer price inflation statistics (2013).

The main movements for CPI in July 2016 are:

- The all items CPI is 100.6, unchanged from last month.
- The all items CPI annual rate is 0.6%, up from 0.5% in June.
- The annual rate for CPI excluding indirect taxes, CPIY, is 0.4%, up from 0.3% last month.
- The annual rate for CPI at constant tax rates, CPI-CT, is 0.5%, up from 0.4% last month.
- The CPI all goods index is 98.1, down from 98.8 in June.
- The CPI all goods index annual rate is -1.4%, up from -1.6% last month.
- The CPI all services index is 103.3, up from 102.7 in June.
- The CPI all services index annual rate is 2.7%, down from 2.8% last month.

CPIH

CPIH has been re-assessed to evaluate the extent to which it meets the professional standards set out in the Code of Practice for Official Statistics and the assessment report published on 3 March 2016. The report includes a number of requirements that need to be implemented for CPIH to regain its status as a National Statistic. The actions taken to address these requirements will be reported to the UK Statistics Authority by September 2016.

CPIH is a measure of UK consumer price inflation that includes owner occupiers' housing costs (OOH). These are the costs of housing services associated with owning, maintaining and living in one's own home. OOH does not include costs such as utility bills, minor repairs and maintenance, which are already included in the index.

CPIH uses an approach called rental equivalence to measure OOH. Rental equivalence uses the rent paid for an equivalent house as a proxy for the costs faced by an owner occupier. In other words this answers the question "how much would I have to pay in rent to live in a home like mine?" for an owner occupier. OOH does not seek to capture increases in house prices. Although this may be inconsistent with some users' expectations of measures of OOH, the inclusion of an asset price and therefore capital gains would make the index less suitable as a measure of consumption. OOH currently accounts for 16.5% of the expenditure weight of CPIH. This compares with a weight of 19.5% in 2005.

Currently, the method of calculation, the population coverage, the basket of goods and services and the method of deriving the weights are the same as for the Consumer Prices Index (CPI), with the exception of OOH. A full description of how CPIH is compiled is given in the Consumer Price Indices Technical Manual and in various papers published on the prices guidance and methodology webpage.

The main movements for CPIH in July 2016 are:

- The all items CPIH is 100.9, unchanged from last month.
- The all items CPIH annual rate is 0.9%, up from 0.8% in June.
- The annual rate for CPIH excluding indirect taxes, CPIHY, is 0.8%, up from 0.7% last month.
- The OOH component of CPIH is 102.4, up from 102.2 in June.
- The OOH component annual rate is 2.4%, up from 2.3% last month.
- The CPIH all goods index is 98.1, down from 98.8 in June.
- The CPIH all goods index annual rate is -1.4%, up from -1.6% last month.
- The CPIH all services index is 103.1, up from 102.5 in June.
- The CPIH all services index annual rate is 2.6%, down from 2.7% last month.

Retail Prices Index (RPI) and RPIJ

In accordance with the Statistics and Registration Service Act 2007, the Retail Prices Index and its derivatives have been assessed against the Code of Practice for Official Statistics and found not to meet the required standard for designation as National Statistics. The full assessment report can be found on the UK Statistics Authority website.

The RPI is a long-standing measure of UK inflation that has historically been used for a wide range of purposes such as the indexation of pensions, rents and index-linked gilts. For further information see Users and uses of consumer price inflation statistics (2013).

RPIJ is an improved variant of the Retail Prices Index which is calculated using formulae that meet international standards. The rationale for creating RPIJ was to give users a better alternative to the RPI if their needs were for a measure of inflation based on the same population, classifications, weights, etc. as the RPI. Currently, RPIJ also acts as an analytical series, in that it allows users to see the impact of using the Jevons (which meets international standards) in place of the Carli formula (which does not meet international standards) in the RPI. The use of the different formulae at the elementary aggregate level is currently the only difference between these indices. Detailed goods and services indices for RPIJ are not produced.

The main movements for RPI and RPIJ in July 2016 are:

- The all items RPI is 263.4, up from 263.1 in June.
- The all items RPI annual rate is 1.9%, up from 1.6% last month.
- The all items RPIJ is 241.1, up from 240.9 in June.
- The all items RPIJ annual rate is 1.1%, up from 0.9% last month.
- The annual rate for RPIX, the all items RPI excluding mortgage interest payments (MIPs) index, is 1.9%, up from 1.7% last month.
- The all goods RPI is 197.3, down from 198.4 in June.
- The all goods RPI annual rate is -0.1%, up from -0.6% last month.
- The all services RPI is 362.7, up from 360.2 in June.
- The all services RPI annual rate is 2.7%, down from 2.8% last month.
- The annual rate for RPIY, the all items RPI excluding MIPs and indirect taxes index, is 1.8%, up from 1.6% last month.
- The Tax and Price Index (TPI) for July is 230.7, up from 230.4 in June.
- The TPI annual rate is 2.3%, up from 2.0% last month.

Large upward effects came from:

- Transport, where prices, overall, rose by 1.6% between June and July this year, compared with a rise of 1.2% between the same 2 months a year ago. Within transport, the largest upward effect came from motor fuels, with prices rising between June and July 2016, having fallen overall between the same 2 months last year. Smaller upward effects came from second-hand cars, with prices falling by less than they did a year ago and from international rail fares, which increased by more than they did last year;
- Alcoholic beverages and tobacco, where within this category, the upward contribution came from alcoholic beverages, for which prices rose overall by 0.5% between June and July 2016, compared with a fall of 2.5% between the same 2 months last year. This was primarily due to prices for wine, which fell by less than they did a year ago, although it is important to note that last year's fall was particularly large;

- Restaurants and hotels, where prices, overall, rose by 0.4%, compared with a smaller rise of 0.1% a year ago. The main upward contribution came from accommodation services, in particular overnight hotel stays, for which prices rose by more than they did a year ago; and
- Food and non-alcoholic beverages, where the upward contribution came from food, for which prices, overall, fell by 0.2% between June and July this year compared with a larger fall of 0.7% between the same 2 months a year ago. The main upward effects came from certain dairy items, although the price movements were not unusual in the historic context. For example, the upward effect seen for shop-bought semi-skimmed milk was partially due to a particularly large fall in prices between June and July last year. These upward contributions were partially offset by a downward effect for meat, with prices falling between June and July 2016, having risen between the same 2 months a year ago.

Small downward effects came from:

- Housing, water, electricity, gas and other fuels, where prices, overall, were unchanged between June and July this year, having risen by 0.3% between the same 2 months a year ago. The downward effect came from housing rental, specifically Registered Social Landlord (RSL) rents, which saw a decrease between June and July 2016, having increased between the same 2 months last year. This may relate to the announcement in the Summer Budget 2015, which committed to reducing social housing rental prices by 1% per year for 4 years, starting in 2016; and
- Recreation and culture, where prices, overall, decreased by 0.1% this year compared with an increase of 0.2% a year ago. The downward effect came primarily from games and toys, particularly computer games and consoles, which fell in price between June and July this year, having risen in the same period last year. This downward effect was partially offset by an upward contribution from audio-visual equipment and related products which, overall, fell in price by less than they did last year.

- Partially offset by maintenance and repairs, where prices overall fell this year but rose a year ago, particularly for roadside recovery services; and
- Other services, where average charges were little changed this year but rose a year ago, with the main downward contribution coming from self-drive car hire.

Passenger transport by road

RPI DETAILED BRIEFING

In accordance with the Statistics and Registration Service Act 2007, the Retail Prices Index and its derivatives have been assessed against the Code of Practice for Official Statistics and found not to meet the required standard for designation as National Statistics. A consultation was carried out in March 2013 on whether to maintain this detailed RPI briefing and, based on views received, it was decided to continue with its publication.

Weights are specified as parts per 1000 in the RPI.

- Due to:
  - Other fresh vegetables, where prices overall were little changed this year but fell a year ago; and
  - Unprocessed potatoes, where prices fell this year by less than a year ago.
- Partially offset by a small downward contribution from home killed lamb, where prices overall fell this year but were little changed a year ago.

- Small upward effect on the all items 12-month rate change.
- Due to:
  - House depreciation, with the smoothed house price index used to calculate this component rising this year by more than a year ago; and to a lesser extent
  - DIY materials, where prices rose this year but fell a year ago, particularly for door handles; and
  - Mortgage interest payments, where charges fell this year by less than a year ago.
- Partially offset by rent, where average charges rose this year by less than a year ago, with the main downward contribution coming from Registered Social Landlord (RSL) rent, where charges overall fell this year but rose a year ago. This may relate to the announcement in the Summer Budget 2015, which committed to reducing social housing rental prices by 1%

RECONCILIATION OF CPI AND RPI

(Table 5 of the Consumer Price Inflation Dataset)

This table identifies the main factors contributing to the differences between the unrounded inflation rates for the CPI and the RPI. These differences are broken down into: mortgage interest payments, other housing components excluded from the CPI, other differences in the coverage of goods and services, and the formula effect. The final column titled 'other differences including weights' is derived as a residual.

The difference between the CPI and RPI unrounded annual rates in July 2016 was -1.26 percentage points, widening from -1.14 percentage points in June 2016.

The main factors contributing to the widening were:

- Other differences including weights, which increased the RPI 12-month rate relative to the CPI 12-month rate by 0.05 percentage points between June and July 2016. The effect came mainly from games, toys and hobbies and equipment for sport and open air recreation; clothing and footwear; and other services.
- Other housing components, which increased the RPI 12-month rate by 0.04 percentage points between June and July 2016 but are excluded from the CPI. The effect came mainly from house depreciation.
- The formula effect, which increased the RPI 12-month rate relative to the CPI 12-month rate by 0.02 percentage points between June and July 2016. The effect came from a wide range of sectors.

There were no significant offsetting factors.

TRANSPORT

Fuels and Lubricants

 A weaker economic outlook means demand for oil in 2017 is likely to grow at a slower rate than this year, according to the International Energy Agency.

Global demand for oil will grow by 1.2 million barrels per day (bpd) in 2017, down from 1.4 million bpd this year, the IEA said.

This represents a cut of 0.1 million bpd from the IEA's forecast last month.

Meanwhile, increasing supply is keeping pressure on crude prices, which have fallen sharply in the past month.

After reaching a price of above $52 a barrel in June, Brent crude fell 14.5% in July due to combination of rising stockpiles and worries about the outlook for demand.

The IEA said huge amounts of stored oil was also putting pressure on prices.

- When considering the price of petrol between July and August 2016, it may be useful to note that the average price of petrol fell by 2.4 pence per litre between July and August 2015, standing at 114.1 pence per litre as measured in the CPI.
- A 1 pence change on average in the cost of a litre of motor fuel contributes approximately
